More than a quarter of a century ago a little band of women went into a saloon in a small city of one of the eastern states to protest to the proprietor against the selling of liquor to young boys. He scoffed and refused to listen to them. Then they appealed from Caesar unto God, and kneeling on the Bill? Throw 'em out?" asked an amazed bystander. "Naw," replied Bill, contemptuously, "they can't do no hurt; they're only prayin'." But they aroused to work, and today the Woman's Christian Temperance Union is said to be the largest society in the world composed exclusively of women, and its narrow white ribbon has encircled the globe
